Week 1 Reflection

In the first week of my OJT, we were oriented by the HR of what is what this company business all about, and they informed us on what is the purpose of every department in the company and we were introduced to every department within the company. My designation department is the QA / warehouse department where we will check the the quality of every technological product that is ready for release. They teach us how to configure the Jollibee menu on digital signage, test the UPS and quality check computer monitors.
